

Summer 2022 Internships

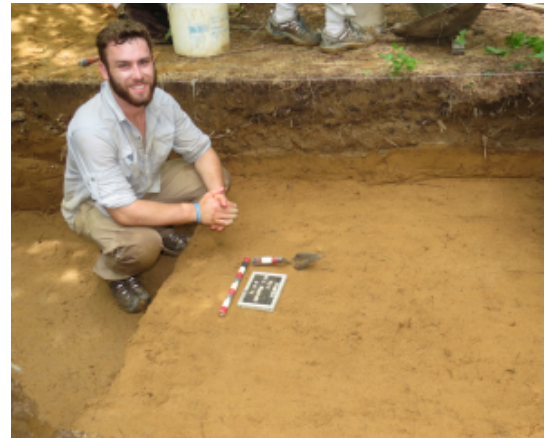

Archaeology & Historic Preservation

Anne Arundel County, Maryland & The Lost Towns Project, Inc.

Hammond Plantation Archaeology

One Internship with Stipend Available
Gambrills & Edgewater, MD

The intern will assist staff working to create a more inclusive history by researching, excavating, documenting, and sharing the diversity of Black households in 19th-century Anne Arundel County, including sites inhabited by both enslaved and free African-Americans, before and after emancipation.

Historic Cemetery Documentation

One Internship with Stipend Available
Remotely & Gambrills, MD

The intern will update the Anne Arundel County Cemetery Database, including data creation, completion of inventory forms, and development of a public summer workshop. This project will enhance and verify existing documentation in the County's cemetery database and develop additional resources for research analysis.

Archaeology Field & Lab Methods

Two Internships for College Credit
Edgewater & Anne Arundel County, MD

Interns will learn the basics of archaeological field and labwork by participating alongside professional archaeologists and volunteers in excavation, recording, and artifact processing in the field and lab. Interns must pursue college credit to qualify for this internship.

Applications are due by April 1, 2022. For full listings and application information, visit losttownsproject.org/internships
