

Johns Hopkins University
Richard Macksey National Undergraduate Humanities Research Symposium
APRIL 3-4, 2020

mackseysymposium@jh.edu

<https://krieger.jhu.edu/macksey-symposium/>

Call for Papers

Undergraduates from any two- or four-year college or university are invited to apply to present their original humanities scholarship. Presentations are up to ten minutes long and can consist of reading a paper, presenting a PowerPoint, reciting original creative writing, or showing an original short film.

Important Dates

Applications Due: January 24
Early Registration: February 21 ($265)
Registration: March 6 ($285)
Conference: April 3-4

Location and Venue

All proceedings are held at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland. Free transport is provided from the Hilton hotel downtown.

About the Symposium

This is the first nationwide symposium dedicated to undergraduate research in the humanities. Featuring a keynote by Pulitzer-winning author Anthony Doerr, a graduate admissions workshop, networking, and a new Macbook raffle! Learn more on our website, including tips on how to apply.