

CONVERSATIONS IN ASIAN STUDIES

“WHY BE MORAL? CONFUCIAN PERSPECTIVES ON THE ORIGIN OF MORALITY”

Dr. Yunwoo Song

Department of Philosophy and Religion
American University

Why do we try to be moral? Is it because we are all inherently moral? What was so unique in China that drove so many people to continue their faith in goodness of human nature for such a long time? Or was there in fact nothing so unique?

In this talk, Dr. Song explains the significance of Confucian discourse on human nature and considers some philosophical problems that arise from these views.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1ST

1:00-2:30 PM

ALBIN O. KUHN LIBRARY AND GALLERY

LIGHT LUNCH WILL BE SERVED

SPONSORED BY THE UMBC ASIAN STUDIES PROGRAM

