Play performed in Spanish

The Beauty
IN HER CAGE

A PLAY BY RUBÉN MOSQUERA

The play sheds light on the tragic story of Felicitas Guerrero, a young Argentine woman who fell victim to femicide in the 19th century. Through its powerful narrative, written by Rubén Mosquera and with compelling performances by Zoe Bertona and Natalia Vacis, the play delves into the complexities of gender inequality, social norms, and the impact of violence against women. By bringing this important issue to the forefront, the production aims to raise awareness, foster dialogue, and promote a change in our society.

We believe that this play presented at Morgan State University and the following discussion hosted at the University of Maryland Baltimore County, will contribute to our collective understanding of gender-related issues, provoke meaningful discussions, and inspire action towards creating a safer and more equitable society. Please mark your calendars for this significant event and encourage your colleagues and students to attend as well. Feel free to share this invitation with anyone who might be interested.
