

The Dresher Center for the Humanities Announces

THE HUMANITIES RETRIEVERS PROGRAM

A new network for undergraduate students studying the humanities

Are you:

- A current humanities major or minor who wants to get connected to information and resources about what to do with your degree?
- A humanities major or minor who wants access to potential opportunities for funding, field trips, and more?
- A humanities major or minor who wants to be connected to other students with similar interests and concerns?

If so, The Humanities Retrievers Program is for you!

The Humanities Retrievers is a network offering information, activities, experiences, community engagement, and professional development opportunities.

- It will connect you to workshops on how to study abroad, life after graduation, and a whole lot more.
- You'll have the opportunity to join teams of fellow students to cheer each other on and advance together.

For more information contact Dr. Earl Brooks, Associate Director, Dresher Center for the Humanities, earlb@umbc.edu.
