EPIK offers responsible, enthusiastic native English speakers an opportunity to share their knowledge and language with students within the Korea public school system across the country.

Apply to the EPIK Program, and get a great start in a teaching career, while making a difference and experiencing Korean culture.

EPIK was established in 1995 and is affiliated with the Korean Ministry of Education. Since its inception, EPIK has had the goals of improving the English-speaking abilities of Korean students and teachers, developing cultural exchange between Korea and abroad, and of introducing new teaching methods into the Korean education system.

To help accomplish these goals, EPIK invites responsible, enthusiastic native English speakers with a motivation to share their knowledge and language with Korean students and teachers within the Korean public school system throughout the country.

Join EPIK coordinators Ashlynn Lim and Angie Lee to learn more about EPIK and how you can become an English teacher in Korea!
