Drawing on results from the Black COVID Survey Project, Dr. Kameelah Mu'Min Rashad and Imam Abdul-Malik Merchant discuss Black Muslim responses to the pandemic. This survey focused on understanding the psychosocial, spiritual and economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on a sample of religiously and ethnically diverse Black/African Americans. This presentation will highlight the survey's major findings and discuss how the pandemic affected Black/African American Muslim's religious practices, financial, and emotional well-being.
