

Global Community Engagement and Social Change in South Africa

July 27 - August 13, 2023

Professor Jessica Cook

Travel to Cape Town to explore South Africa's culture, complex history, and current socio-political landscape. Learn how government, civil society, and activists are influencing social change.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

PUB 300 will engage students in academic, experiential and intercultural learning in and about South Africa. Students will focus on contemporary social challenges and the strategies that government, non-governmental organizations (NGOs), and citizen activists are using to address them.

COURSE ACTIVITIES

- » Service-learning with local NGOs
- » Meetings with activists, NGO leaders and government officials
- » A safari and overnight stay at the Aquila Game Reserve
- » Visits to sites of historical and cultural significance, including Parliament, the District 6 Museum, Table Mountain, and the surrounding Western Cape region
- » Experiential learning activities including language, culture and cooking workshops
