WHAT

A week-long, in-person training program on the discipline of political science, life and work in academia, and the process of applying to Ph.D. programs.

WHO

Juniors and seniors in DC, DE, MD, VA, & WV, majoring in political science or similar field, who are thinking about applying to a Ph.D. program.

We are especially interested in students from underrepresented and disadvantaged backgrounds who will contribute to political science meeting the diverse challenges of the 21st century.

HOW

The Institute pays for travel, food, and lodging at Georgetown, and an additional stipend. We connect students with resources to help with graduate applications in the coming year.
