

NEW FRONTIERS IN HEALTHCARE MANAGEMENT

By Kanagawa Prefectural Government of Japan & UMBC

Life Sciences Seminar

THE NEW CONCEPT OF “ME-BYO (未病)” INNOVATIVE APPROACHES TO THE AGING SOCIETY sponsored by the Department of Sociology, Anthropology, and Public Health, UMB/UMBC Doctoral Program in Gerontology, and The Erickson School

OCT. 20TH
2:00 –
4:30 PM

UMBC

1000 HILLTOP CIRCLE, BALTIMORE
ALBIN O. KUHN LIBRARY 7TH FLOOR CONFERENCE ROOM

Registration

Click here

Yuji Kuroiwa
Governor,
Kanagawa Pref., Japan

Dr. Dana Bradley
Dean, The Erickson
School, UMBC

Dr. Nancy Kusmaul
Associate Professor,
Social Work,
Social Work, UMBC

Dr. Madhav Thambisetty
Section Chief, Clinical
and Translational
Neuroscience Section,
National Institutes of Health, National Institute on Aging

Dr. Ian Stockwell
Associate Professor,
Information Systems,
UMBC

Dr. Brandy Wallace
Associate Professor,
Sociology, Anthropology,
and Public Health,
UMBC

Dr. Takashi Yamashita
Professor, Sociology,
Anthropology, and Public Health, &
Gerontology Ph.D. program, UMBC

WHAT IS ME-BYO (未病)?

The new concept of “ME-BYO” is a pre-symptomatic state that continuously changes between health and illness.

Kanagawa Prefecture, the second-largest metroplex in Japan, is well known for its cutting-edge technologies in the life science field and promotes the concept of ME-BYO.

Questions? Email Dr. Taka Yamashita yamataka@umbc.edu

